

VIEWFINDER

Binhai International Airport, Tianjin, China

Image: Macfarlane Wilder

On the verge of a development explosion, can the Chinese Government be coaxed into environmental responsibility? Landscape architect Macfarlane Wilder thinks so. Its competition-winning landscape masterplan for the new Binhai International Airport in Tianjin (above) employs fan-shaped mounds to provide both an aesthetic and environmental function by: concealing car parking; providing an integrated transport hub; and collecting surface water. Visit: www.macfarlanewilder.com